- 8. Teach a class (following the Masters and PSYC590)
- 9. Prelim Exams Generally, begin these exams in year 3 with completion by year 4.
- 10. Dissertation required for the PhD (PSYC 699 minimum of 1 credit)
  - a. Formal proposal required (acquire mentor approval, form committee, h old meeting.)
  - b. Dissertation Defense

NOTE In the listing above, some of the courses are formally part of the masters program, while others are part of the doctoral program. Students should not be too concerned about this distinction, and should simply take

PSYC 572 Neurophysiology (4 credits)

PSYC 573 Neurochemistry (2 credits)

PSYC 574 Psychopharmacology (4 credits)

PSYC 575 Brain Neuroscience I (2 credits)

PSYC576 Developmental Neuroplasticity (2 credits)

PSYC577 Human Neuropsychology (4 credits)

PSYC615 Human Development (3 credits)

PSYC 616 Cognitive and Affective Bases of Behavior (3 credits)